NUMBER 38

The wife of Senator Cameron, of this State, who was dangerously ill for some time during the past winter, has so far recovered as to be out doors.

There is not much hope that Ralph Waldo Emerson will recover from his present sickness. He is down very low, and his condition does not warrant the hope that he can long withstand the attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Blaine's oration upon the life and character of President Garfield, delivered before a joint assembly of Congress, has been engrossed upon a sheet of Bristol-board by a resident of Philadelphia who intends to present this result of long and patient labor to Mrs. Garfield.

The business on the Milwaukee and St. Paul railway between Chicago and Milwaukee has increased so rapidly that the company has been compelled to build a double track between those cities. Steel rails will be laid, and the work will be done during the present year.

Joseph Jefferson, the actor, has painted a magnificent picture of a Southern landscape, and has presented it to Attorney General Brewster. Mr. Jefferson is not only the best Rip Van Winkle in the world, but he is a skillful landscape painter. Many of the finest scenes in "Rip" were painted by himself.

Three prominent politicians, each of whom belong to a different school of politics—James G. Blaine, Thomas Ewing, of Ohio, and Senator Davis, of West Virginia, have formed a syndicate to purchase the Washington and Ohio railway, which is intended to be a short line between Washington and Cincinnati.

It looks now as if Secretary Chandler of the Navy, would disappoint those who opposed him on the ground that he was not fit for the place. He has inaugurated a very much needed reform, and has ordered that no parade of military or firing of guns will hereafter be made when the Secretary of the Navy visits any of the naval stations.

The temperance people will find much comfort in the statement of the Cleveland Herald, that the indignation of the liquor men against the passage of the Pond and Smith Sunday bills is doing more to help and strengthen the Republican party than any other movement that could be organized, and the good results springing from this opposition are already beginning to be felt throughout the State.

It is stated that ex-Senator O. B. Thomas, of Prairie du Chien, will be a candidate for Congress in the Seventh district. Crawford has been in the Third district for many years, but the Price-Rankin apportionment of last winter, placed Mr. Thomas' county in the Seventh district. It would be immensely to the advantage of the district if Mr. Thomas were sent to Congress. He is not only one of the ablest men in the district, but he is a man of energy, enterprise, thoroughly practical, and above all, of irreproachable character. If the Seventh district should consult its own interest, it would give Mr. Thomas the nomination without a contest and the election by a large majority.

The high water on the Upper Fox river has caused so much alarm in that section of the country that Governor Rusk has been requested to go to Washington and see about it. Just what Congress has to do with the overflowing of Fox river or the disastrous rise of Lake Winnebago, cannot be plainly seen, and the Governor himself is somewhat in the dark about it. But he will go to Washington and consult with the powers that be and very likely something good may come out of it. The Madison Democrat thinks it sees the points, and says: "We have a ranking suspicion that the manufacturers along that magnificent water power have organized for a raid on the fifteen million appropriation for rivers and harbors, and that to this end the little flood up there has dropped in mightily opportunely. However, if Congress is bound to appropriate, the mill men in Wisconsin are as much entitled to it as any one." We judge the Democrat is not far from right in its suspicions.

There is no man in this country who is more dashing, brilliant, magnetic, or more skillful in using wit and sarcasm, than James G. Blaine. His greatest power is brought out and his richest eloquence displayed, when some one tries to corner him, or falsely charge him with dishonor. Then he rises higher than any other statesman in the United States, and hurls that "shining lance" with a skill that is marvelous. He went before the Shipherd investigating committee on Monday to testify in regard to the Peruvian matter. Shipherd had connected Mr. Blaine's name in a dishonorable way with that business. The charges of Shipherd were false, and the country believed they were. His appearance before that committee was a great dramatic event. He was prepared to make the country pay attention to what he was going to say, and he never gave a more interesting public entertainment than when he appeared before the Committee of Foreign Affairs. The dramatic scenes he created in the House of Representatives when the Democrats were in power in that body, were scarcely more interesting than his testimony before that committee. When he got at Shipherd there was nothing left of that gentleman. He went for him with a dash and a power that were perfectly thrilling. The way he went at the business of showing up Shipherd was wonderfully entertaining to the dense crowd of spectators. He scattered the shreds of Shipherd's story to the winds, and the more he explained matters to the committee the blacker became the character of Jacob R. Shipherd. After dealing with him to the extent of knocking the whole fabric to pieces, he paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of Garfield and Hurlbut. It would seem that this investigation has gone quite far enough. There is no truth in Shipherd, and his chief business is to assault the characters of public men. Right here he should be turned over to the authorities, and the committee permitted to return to the House. Since Blaine has spoken there is no use spending any more time or money in that direction.

REPUBLICAN DIFFERENCES.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—There has been this week a display of cross-purposes on the Republican side of the House in regard to the order of business that cannot fail to be a source of comfort to the Democracy. The Elections Committee and the Committee on Ways and Means have locked horns for a fight, instead of joining issue against the common enemy. It was understood that, although the Ways and Means Committee had decided to close the tariff debate this week, the Committee on Elections was to go on with the settlement of the contests, interrupted last week by the illness of Mr. Atherton. To the disgust of Mr. Calkins, however, when it came to the issue, the Republicans on the ways and means committee made the plea that they were under pledge to the Democratic members of their committee to press the tariff debate. It seemed a little transparent why the Democrats of the ways and means committee, or of any other committee, should prefer to discuss the tariff to having a few members uneaten.

It appears, however, that it is a case such as often appears, especially in the Senate, however, where committee associations and personal friendships override a great public duty. The Republicans on the committee all at once appear as the friends of their enemies, and "dear" Carlisle, and "dear" Morrison, and "dear" Randall of this committee have far more consideration at the hands of their colleagues than a colored man whose seat is held through fraud by Fort-Pillow Chalmers. The effect on the Republican side is demoralizing, and makes the want of a leader more pressing than ever before during this session. It is an exhibition of dilly-dallying that encourages the Democrats, while it detracts from the strength of the majority. Calkins is out of humor, and will continue to press the business of his committee in obedience to the caucus resolution. What will be the result it is difficult to tell, but the prospect of settlement of the contested cases this session does not look so bright as it did a week ago.

Consumption Cure.
Dr. R. V. Pierce: Dear Sir—Death was hourly expected by myself and friends. My physicians pronounced my disease consumption, and said I must die. I began taking your "Discovery," and "Pellegrini." I have used nine bottles and am wonderfully relieved. I am now able to ride out.

RAILROAD NEWS.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 25.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company have just issued an order prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors or the keeping of a bar in their eating-houses. The earnings of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company for the second week in April, 1882, are $334,000, against $264,000 for the same week last year. Mr. J. H. Page, Assistant General Passenger Agent of this road, has resigned his position, and will go into business in Pennsylvania.

A RELIC OF JAMES.

St. Joseph, April 25.—Mrs. Henrietta Saltzman has brought suit against the State, with Governor Crittenden, for damages to her house, the one occupied by the late Jesse James. She claims that her house was worth $3,000 prior to the killing of the outlaw, but has suffered a loss by the relic-hunters, and, as the killing was the work of the State's agents, she wants the State to pay.

Food for Young and Old.

Food and medicine for young and old prepared without fermentation, from Canadian Barley Malt, Hops, Quinine Bark, etc. MALT BITTERS are warranted more Nourishing, Strengthening, Vitalizing and Purifying, by reason of their richness in Bone and Muscle Producing Material than all other forms of malt or medicine, while free from the objections urged against malt liquors.

TOO TRUE.

LORDSBURG, N. M., April 25.—A report, which is reliable, just received from Stein Pass, says: One hundred and seventy-five Indians attacked Gualleesville and killed thirty-five whites.

The Indians are all south of the railroad, headed for the Chiricahua Mountains. General Forsythe closed up, and a fight is expected to-night or early in the morning.

The Lordsburg cadets, Captain Harris, are under arms. The town was guarded by armed men all night. Great excitement here all day.

Four wounded soldiers were brought in last night by private conveyances sent out from here for that purpose. They were Sergeant Morey, Company C, Sixth Cavalry, M. D. Leonard, privates Downey and Sullivan, Company H, all of the Fourth Cavalry. The wounded were forwarded to the hospital at Fort Cummings by rail this morning.

More died before reaching the hospital, and was buried at that place this afternoon.

The report is current of two prospectors having been killed yesterday nineteen miles north of Gila.

BURNING A TOWN.

Latest Exploit of the Hostiles.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 1 a. m.—A Shakespeare (N. M.) dispatch says a telegram has just been received from the operator at Stein's Pass, who reports that the town of Gualleesville, in Arizona, just over the New Mexico line, was burned and completely destroyed this evening by Indians.

Thirty-five white people were killed. The Indians are scattering into small bands, and making for the Chiricahua Mountains.

Forsythe, with his entire command, is in pursuit.

PHOEBE COZZENS.

St. Louis, April 25.—A paper in the form of an endorsement of the petition recently sent from here to President Arthur requesting him to appoint Phoebe W. Cozzens, of this city one of the commissioners to reorganize Utah, is in circulation at Jefferson City and has been signed by Gov. Crittenden and many members of the Legislature.

It is Worth Remembering that nobody enjoys the nicest surroundings if in bad health. There are miserable people about to-day with one foot in the grave, when a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic would do them more good than all the doctors and medicines they have ever tried. See adv.

Milton.

—Dr. A. S. Maxon has gone to Baraboo to begin the practice of medicine with Dr. Davis, of that place, who is one of the best known physicians in the State. Mrs. Maxon did not accompany the Doctor, but will go there in a short time. May success attend them in their new home.

—President Whitford left this village Tuesday for a trip to Colorado, and the "Rockies." He may conclude to visit the Pacific before his return, and takes with him the best wishes of his many friends for a pleasant journey and safe return. He expects to be absent about four weeks and anticipates improved health as the result of the vacation.

—On Tuesday Miss A. S. Hemphill, daughter of Wm. Hemphill, and C. M. Morse, of Lake Benton, Minn., were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by President Whitford, at his residence, the bride being a niece of Mr. Whitford. The wedding was a quiet affair, only a few of the classmates of the bride being present, aside from the relatives, "Lide" and "Charley," as the principals were always called by their friends everywhere, have the best wishes of a numberless throng of friends for a future that shall be bright and happy and the citizens of Lake Benton are to be congratulated upon this valuable acquisition to their social circle. May they live long and prosper, and in the future come often to visit Milton friends. The happy couple left after the ceremony for their future home at Lake Benton. Among the many presents the most noticeable was a set of seven pieces of silverware from eight young ladies who were Mrs. Morse's college classmates.

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS.

Ivory is so valuable that manufacturers who use it save even the powder, which is sold for making jelly.

The average life of an English gold sovereign is about eighteen years—that is, the coin loses three-quarters of its grain in weight in about that length of time. It then ceases to be legal tender. It is said that of the £1,000,000 of British gold coinage 40 per cent. is worn down below the legal rate.

Dr. Lewis Balch, of Albany, in a review of the medical evidence in the celebrated Billings murder case, alludes to the curious fact that a ball of a given caliber fired through glass may make a hole enough smaller than the full size of the ball before firing to prevent an unfired ball of like caliber passing. Dr. Balch notes having seen "a base ball, thrown with great force and having a rotary twist, make a round hole through an ordinary window light, and when the ball was tried to be again passed through the same opening the hole was nearly one-third too small."

The English antiquary, John Aubrey, who wrote about the middle of the seventeenth century, says that in his time most of the houses in the West End of London were protected against witches and evil spirits by having horse-shoes fastened to them in various ways. It was the belief that then no witch or evil genius could cross the threshold which was protected by the shoe. The fact is that the superstition has been traced about so far back, and then we find it lost in the obscurity of the ages. The custom of nailing horse-shoes for luck to all kinds of sailing craft is still in vogue, and is religiously maintained to be a wise and lucky measure. The superstition goes further, by making it fortunate for any one to find a horse-shoe, and the good luck is increased with the number of nails that are attached to the shoe when it is picked up.

It is curious to note that Scott's earliest poems were published under the title of William Scott. Still more curious to note that he was not aware of this until it was mentioned in "Taylor's Survey of German Poetry." Scott wrote to Taylor, to renounce it. "As to a native of Scotland," he writes, "there are few things counted more dishonorable than abandoning his own name." Taylor's defence was, "If you had seen the title-page of Goetz von Berlichingen, printed in London in 1779, for Bell, 148 Oxford street, you would not have been surprised at my blunder. It states the play to have been translated from the German, by Wm. Scott, Esq., advocate of Edinburgh." "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" has the name of Walter Scott, Esq., advocate of Edinburgh, prefixed. That there should be two Scotts, both advocates, both of Edinburgh, and both skilled in German, at a time when the study of that language was uncommon, appeared to me improbable, and I therefore inferred that the historic or baptismal name of this individual was William, and his romantic or Arcadian name was Walter."

A CONSISTENT increase of suicides among the officers of the Austrian army has led to an investigation, and it is found that pecuniary embarrassment is the cause in 90 per cent. of the cases. The cost of living has greatly increased in Austria, as it has everywhere else in Europe, within a few years, and at the same time the manner of life among the army officers has become more extravagant. To offset these larger demands upon their incomes there has been no proportionate increase in their pay, which was always notoriously small.

Said the teacher: "And it came to pass, when King Ezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes." Now what does that mean, children, "he rent his clothes?" Up went a little hand. "Well, if you know, tell us." "Please, ma'am," said the child, timidly, "I s'pose he hired 'em out."

DEPEND upon it, whatever may be the mind of an old man, old age is only really happy when, on feeling the enjoyments of this world pass away, it begins to lay a stronger hold on those of another.—Daniel Webster.

The Greatest Blessing.

A simple, pure, harmless remedy, that cures every time, and prevents disease by keeping the blood pure, stomach regular, kidneys and liver active, is the greatest blessing ever conferred upon man. Hop Bitters is that remedy, and its proprietors are being blessed by thousands who have been saved and cured by it. Will you try it? See another column.

Forests and Rain.

The effect of forests upon the amount of rainfall in any district is now generally recognized, and the planting of trees has, therefore, been urged by a M. Deherain upon the French Government as one of the chief means of increasing the humidity of Algeria. It is well known that under the Romans and Carthaginians Algeria was a fertile and populous country, and the remains of populous cities are found in the midst of what is now an uninhabited desert. This change in the character of the region has minimized the climate conditions following upon the gradual destruction of the forests which once covered it, and he believes it possible, by assiduous tree-planting, to bring it back to its former fertility and prosperity. That the soil is not yet, like that of Arabia, for instance, destitute of the elements requisite for the growth of vegetation is shown by the circumstance that in the rainy years, which occur four or five times in a generation, plants spring up in great numbers, and grain ripens perfectly, but as a rule, the rains are frequent and violent, filling the ravines with torrents which die away in a few hours, leaving the ground nearly as dry as before. That such conditions usually follow the denudation of an extensive district is now definitely known, but M. Deherain was able to make an observation which would suggest that the effect may be produced on a smaller scale than is generally imagined. Riding one day, when appearances dictated rain, through the desert country, at some distance from the Boghari Mountains, he noticed as the clouds moved over the partially wooded mountain slopes, the long-gray streamers of rain descending upon the forests, but upon these alone; over the cleared portions there were none; and on the plain not a drop of rain fell.
